LEXIQUE ŒNOLOGIQUE

BOUQUET, as a wine's aroma becomes more developed from bottle aging, the aroma is transformed into a bouquet.

ROBE describes the color of the wine and its intensity.

ROND describes the softness of the wine on the tongue, not overly tannic.

MILLESIME simply means the year.

CUVÉE generally refers to a batch of wines.

EXTRA BRUT would be a champagne containing no more than six grams of sugar per liter. Wines with no dosage at all are almost always called Brut.

DEMI-SEC is a relatively sweet style of champagne, containing a dosage of between 33 and 50 grams of sugar per liter.

SEC—meaning "dry" in French— refers to a champagne with a dosage level of between 17 and 35 grams of sugar per liter.
